MCDOWELL COUNTY PUBLIC LIBRARY

MARION, NC 28752

Varied views show M.H.S. in Perspective

As the year begins, we, the students, enter another page in our book of life.

A page of change . . . a different principal . . . new teachers . . . more freshmen . . . another year . . .

A page of spirit . . . noise, clapps, cheers, laughter . . . all from the spectators.

The pep and enthusiasm from the cheerleaders instill the spirit we hear from the spectators.

PERSPECTIVE

No single image defines Marion High

From the assortment of individuals viewed in perspective, we gather mingled feelings . . . the confusion of freshmen . . . the assurance of Seniors . . . sometimes tears, sometimes joy . . . frustration . . . anxiety . . . doubt . . . excitement . . . seriousness . . . but underneath it all, a feeling of belonging . . .

From inside: a deeper look

In walking through the halls of M.H.S. from 8:20 until 3:20 on a typical school day, through perspective, one might observe . . . the usual rush for homeroom . . . those who make it and -- those who suddenly realize the hours they must sacrifice for minutes of tardiness . . . the sleepy unattentiveness of first period . . . anticipation for the break . . . and at last the 20 minutes of rest . . . or is it rest? . . . for now one views a hurried disorder of students attempting to attend ten club meetings at once . . . and now its over and back to work . . . third period -- the longest of the day -- as we hungrily await LUNCH! . . . then there's the usual mad scramble to obtain a place in the endless lunch line first . . . hot dogs, soup, fish . . . and now back to class for two more hours . . . sixth period -- fleeting seconds that crawl by like hours . . . and at last it's 3:20 and the end is here . . . another day completed at M.H.S.

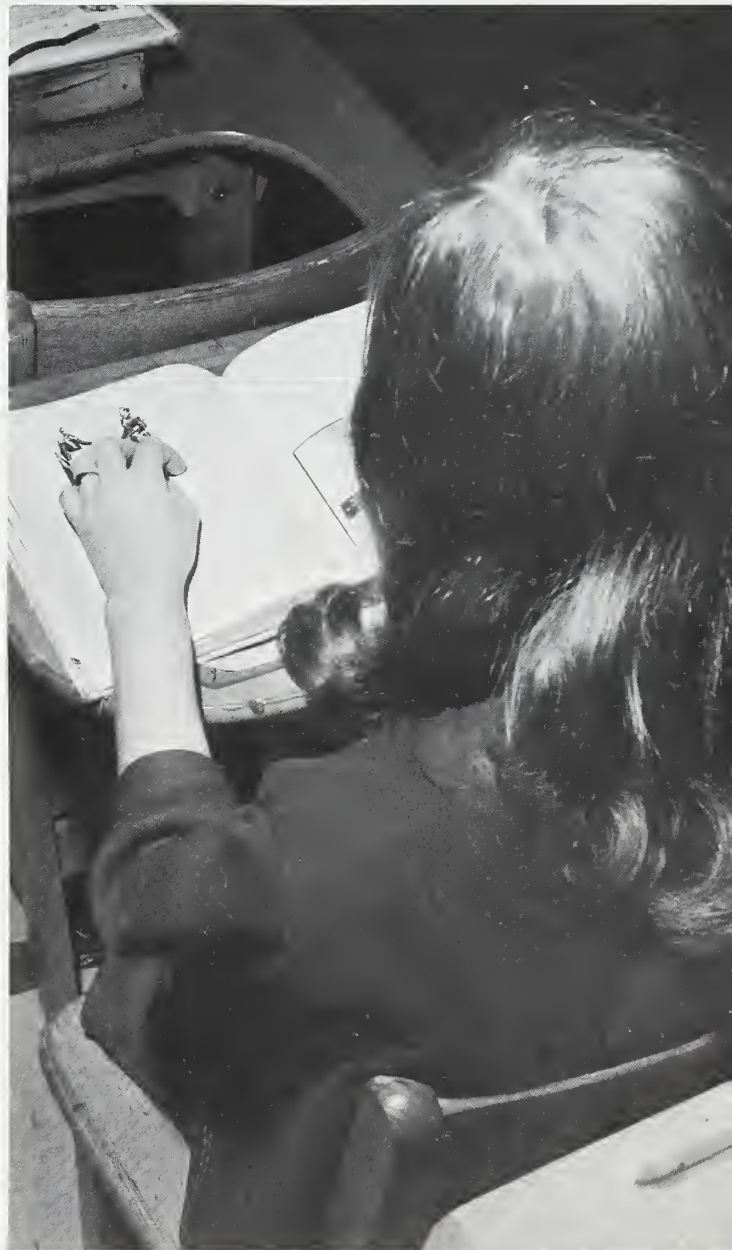

Students take advantage of library facilities during study hall.

Teachers check on the students daily progress.
Through individual studying we get a deeper knowledge.

LEADING

Mr. Ted Freeman, Principal

Mr. Hugh Beam, Superintendent of City Schools

Administration leads students

Concentrating their time and effort toward improving the quality of graduates of Marion High School, The School Board, headed by Superintendent of Schools, Hugh Beam, is dedicated in providing up-to-date textbooks and highly qualified teachers. Bettering the efficiency of the educational system, these men have developed the principles and policies of Marion High School.

The Thinker

Mrs. Payne, school secretary

Progressive leaders

A lake is quiet and serene until some disturbance brings about ripples and waves. To keep M.H.S. a quiet and serene place is the task of Mr. Ted Freeman, our principal.

Giving of his time, Mr. Freeman constantly listens to the problems of students, teachers, and clubs. His willingness to listen to these many problems, his understanding of the problems, his kindness and firmness has gained him the respect of each individual at Marion. It is these, and many other characteristics that have kept our school a quiet and serene place in which to gain knowledge of the past, present, and future.

"Are you sure you were sick yesterday?"

Mrs. Tucker, the guidance counselor, aids in the presentation of subjects by supplying the subject teacher with pamphlets and leaflets. Whether choosing an occupation, an elective, or a college to attend, the guidance office stands willing to aid students in a number of methods. The student's betterment, material improvement, and career planning are the guidance office's sole purpose.

Mrs. Tucker straightens her pamphlets.

Mrs. Tucker's many jobs include helping students select a college.

Our dietitian, Mrs. Shirley Hensley

CAFETERIA STAFF

"The kids are coming, get the lunches ready!" These are the words spoken by our competent lunchroom staff as the students begin coming to lunch.

Each day these women prepare and serve Marion High School students a well-balanced, nourishing meal under the direction of Mrs. Hensley, the dietitian. The lunchroom staff also gives of its time and energy to help with various banquets and suppers sponsored by school organizations.

STAGE CREW

JANITORS

Mr. Dillingham and Mr. McKinney

Through the years the excellent care of the grounds and building has been the work of the custodial staff.

No job is too small if it improves the condition of the school. Besides the usual tasks of cleaning the floors and refinishing the gym floor at alternate periods during the year, they also give the building a complete cleaning during the summer and Christmas holidays.

Marion is indeed fortunate to have its building entrusted to such a capable staff.

Students use library facilities for studying.

Miss Glenn is always willing to assist students.

Library Assistants

School work and a good library go hand in hand in developing a student's knowledge. Both the librarians and the Library Club work hard aiding students in checking out books.

The Marion High School library is of invaluable assistance to students doing research. With the aid of READER'S GUIDE, the reference book, and magazines, students secure up-to-date articles on their research topic. After viewing the varied selection of book and reference materials, one begins organizing and writing his report.

With the addition of new books, the student body is offered an even greater source of knowledge.

The library is a source for research material.

Cindy Mode assists Phillip Church in checking out a book.

Mrs. Wise

At the end of the six weeks, Mrs. Wilkins checks over her grade book.

English at M.H.S.

Diagramming sentences is a skill learned in English.

Grammar! Literature! Vocabulary! These are the major parts of English at Marion. The English teachers strive to impart to all students a broader knowledge of their language and a wider vocabulary usage. Correct speech habits are developed in the Debate Club. Creative writing and legible handwriting are stressed daily by our capable staff of instructors. Courses are taught to enrich our knowledge and broaden the students cultural background so that he may be a more informed and responsible citizen in the community.

All students remember one experience in English while other students remember others. Sophomores remember Silas Marner, while Seniors remember Shakespeare and wonder how they managed to struggle through.

History knowledge through the ages

Charter members of the Bear Club.

Sociology class is a scene of heated discussion.

Through history, we gain an essential knowledge of things to come. Life is a repetitious cycle in which events can be predetermined from past examples. By studying various forms of history, one can become acquainted with the social, political, and economic world in which we live. With history, a written record which has endured through the ages, we may face the future with faith and confidence.

The Fall of the Roman Empire, the defeat of Napoleon at Waterloo, and the Franco-Prussian War are some of the events studied by Sophomores in World History. Special emphasis on the Revolutionary War and the Civil War, term papers, and book reports are only a part of the interesting projects outlined in American History. These various activities give students a basic knowledge of the great role history plays in the lives of each individual.

Miss Hull

Through contemplation, one becomes wise.

Languages

Parlez-vous francis?

"Now, you translate the next paragraph, Freddy."

Language is one's main source of communication between nations other than his own. Without a language, one could not communicate ideas.

The language department of M.H.S. has well experienced instructors to teach its languages, Latin and French.

The teachers try to instill in the minds of each student a basic knowledge of the grammar of the language they are studying. The students learn the background and history of the country from which the language derives.

Through many hours of study, the French and Latin students finally conclude that all the hard work was worth the effort.

What's a nuclear reaction? That is one question asked by many students, and answered by many teachers in the various science classes. Yet, science is not just cut and dried facts about elements, their reactions, and their make-up. It is also experimentation, such as making hydrogen from iron and sulfuric acid, and learning about this great earth of ours. As we look back on this year, we will find that some of these "not so important" facts are, in reality, of great significance.

Chemistry students enjoy experimenting in the lab.

Math teaches one to Mathematics is used in all phases of our everyday life. Because of this, one needs to be familiar with the ways of math.

Most of the Seniors study advanced algebra and trigonometry, commonly known as College Algebra. While Seniors are working their way through College Algebra, Juniors, Sophomores, and Freshmen are studying Geometry, Algebra I, or Algebra II.

$y-y = y-y$ ($x-x$) being a typical Algebra II formula, students find Math is the language of all sciences.

Miss Alley exhibits stars made by her Algebra III students.

Keith Parker works diligently on her Algebra II.

Commercial students prepare for the Business World

Mrs. Freeman

Mrs. Morris

At first, it seems you can't get the hang of it.

"Girls, set your typewriters and prepare for a timed writing" . . . "now, class, get out your shorthand pads for dictation" . . . "Remember, debit on the left and credit on the right" . . . These are a few of the instructions one may hear when he passes the rooms of Mrs. Freeman or Mrs. Morris.

Bookkeeping, General Business, and Secretarial Practice are essential to a student who plans to enter a business college or enter a field in business.

Students who take typing or shorthand are well instructed in these courses. Many seniors who type well and have a good shorthand speed are capable of finding a good job after they graduate.

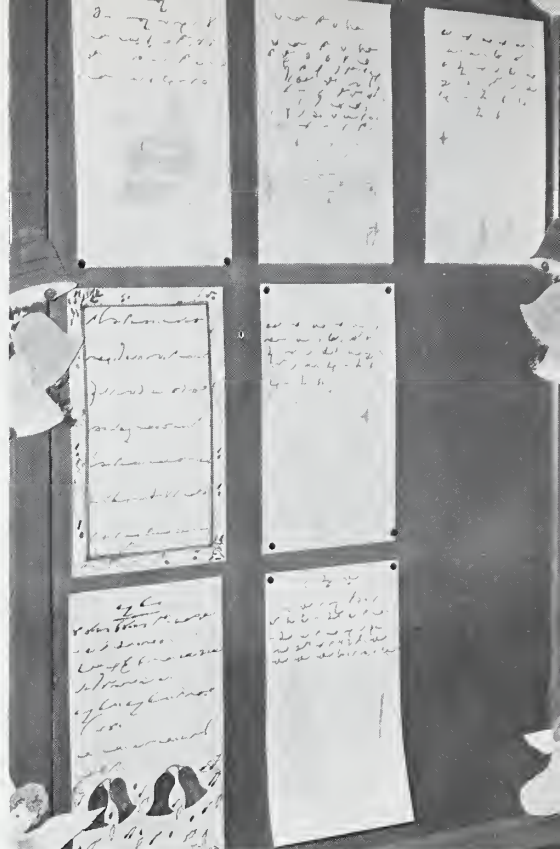

Because of capable instructors and modern office machines to use, the Commercial Department proves to be an asset to each student.

Mrs. Morris checks the neatness of typing drills.

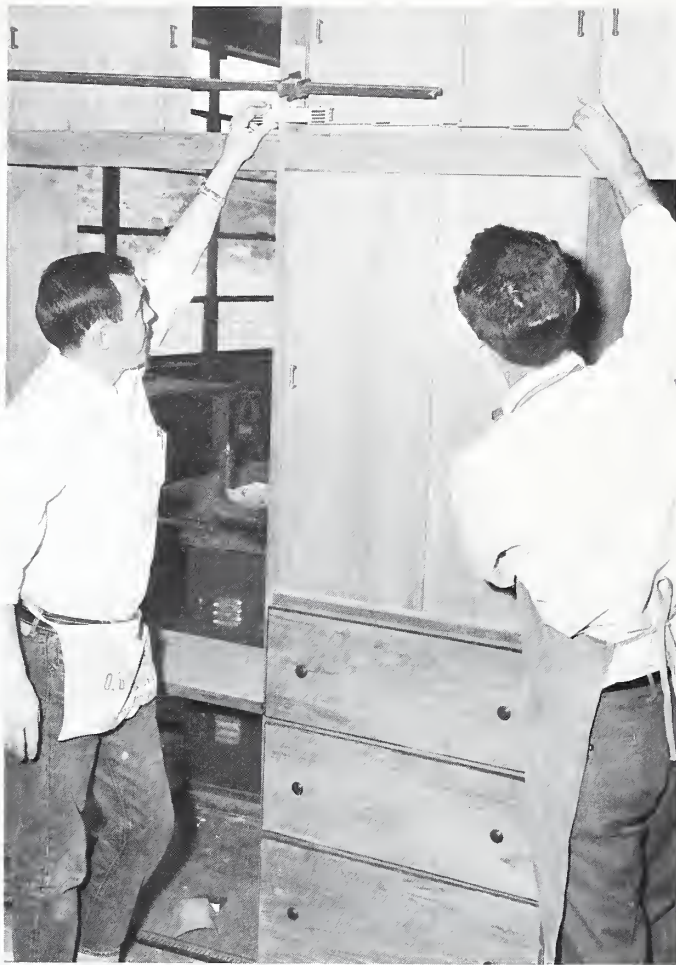

Seriously working on her ledgers, June Sowers strives to improve her Bookkeeping grades.

Shorthand students display their knowledge on the Christmas bulletin board.

Typing students better their speed by taking timed writings.

Hammering, sawing, creating, the boys in shop are learning a useful craft that will be indispensable to them throughout their lives. Perhaps a hobby, perhaps as a trade . . . this art will go with them always.

Through the expert guidance of Miss Benfield, the Home Ec. students have learned the fundamentals of cooking, sewing, good grooming, and other fields of Home Economics.

Sewing and cooking are two activities that are always practiced in the room of the Home Ec. Department.

Miss Benfield talks to the girls about good posture.

"I feel sorry for whoever eats this."

"Who's got the cheat notes?"

take on-the-job training

D.E. and I.C.T. are two of the newest courses offered at Marion High School. Mr. Earl Duncan teaches I.C.T., while Mrs. Margaret Anderson teaches D.E. A student taking these courses is able to earn two units of high school credit- one for his regular classroom study and one for his job. This job, which is obtained for the student by his teacher, is connected with his studies. Many D.E. and I.C.T. students leave school early each day, in order to spend more time on their jobs. While learning more about his job or the one for which he is preparing, the student can continue in his studies at school.

"Well, how many of you got fired yesterday?"

To be mentally alert is

Up and over!

Mrs. Joy Wilson

One! Two! Three! Four! These numbers are chanted rhythmically at the beginning of each physical education class as the girls do their "jumping jacks" or "sit-ups." Mrs. Joy Wilson has introduced indoor and outdoor games. Among these are basketball, softball, and tumbling. The girls' P.E. classes, around the Christmas season, joined together for modern dancing which was enjoyed by all.

Health was taught with a great deal of participation by all the girls. They learned of the body, its functions, and of the mental composition of humans.

Our able instructor, Mrs. Wilson, teaches the student physical fitness.

to be physically fit

Mr. Jerry Greene is head of the physical education department.

"Physical fitness and mental fitness go hand in hand." This phrase, which was once practiced by the Greeks, is still practiced by students at Marion High School. Mental fitness is acquired in the classroom, while physical fitness is developed in the P.E. classes.

Under Coach Jerry Green, the P.E. boys are put through vigorous physical exercises to tone young muscles. The boys are organized into squads at the beginning of the year to learn to play the sports as they come into season. For many, this is their first experience in working together as a unit. Not only do they learn to acquire the skills to play sports, good sportsmanship is also learned.

Mr. Anderson

Mr. Greene

"Come on boys, straighten those arms! Practice makes perfect."

Poise and experience through performance

Thumping fingers pound out the rhythm of "Dixie", a melodic voice hums the Alma Mater. These are some of the effects produced when the band of MHS performs a number during practice or at a ballgame. The black and orange uniforms add zest to the routines as the band marches during the half-times at football games. The different types of music and steady marching are also present in the various Christmas parades.

Mr. Bean

Mr. Laughridge

"Here we come again."

Through music appreciation class we come to understand good music.

"Blow the instrument, don't suek it."

In April, the Symphonic band participates in the state music festival.

The Concert band competes in the Western North Carolina Music Festival, which is held in the auditorium of MHS.

This year the band had the special honor of participating in the Cherry Blossom Festival, held in Washington, D. C.

The Rippers get a first down

FOOTBALL . . . 1966

Although the Marion Rippers did not have a winning season, they still provided plenty of thrills for Ripper fans.

The whole season started on August 15. Two weeks of endless practices, and skull sessions followed. Then on September 2, the Rippers traveled to R. S. Central for the opening game of the season. The opponents were a much larger and more experienced squad, but the Rippers' fight and spirit proved almost an equal match. The opponents' size came to an advantage in the final stages of the game and they managed to pull a 20-6 victory out of the fire.

Next, the Rippers played host to the highly touted Wilkes-Central squad. They showed the Rippers that their high rating was no fluke and soundly beat the home team 37-7.

The Rippers took to the road the next week to face the Valdese Tigers. The Rippers played sound offensive and defensive football and beat the Tigers 13-7 on their own home grounds.

The Rippers returned home facing a hard, uphill fight since Hickory was next on the list. The Rippers boldly stood to face the powerful Red Tornadoes, but they proved that their high ranking was definite not an overrating.

An away game at Taylorsville followed and the Rippers turned in another victory. This was the best offensive game of the season for the Coach Anderson's drive and desire influenced all the Rippers . . . he established himself as a leader and marked a great influence upon the squad.

Rippers as they ran up a score of 32-14.

Watagua came to Marion the next week and a close game followed, as fans will remember. Watagua's Pioneers pulled it out in the last minutes 26-19.

The Rippers' spirit seemed to be up for the homecoming game against a tough Lenoir team. Cheered on by the Ripper fans, the team played their hearts out but had to go into an overtime period to win the game 7-6. It went down in the record books as a 0-0 tie but the Rippers will always remember it as a pleasing victory.

The Rippers traveled to face Newton-Conover on the Red Devils homecoming night. The Red Devils played a good game and blanked the Rippers by a score of 26-0.

The Rippers returned home to face the rival Morganton Wildcats but couldn't seem to catch hold, and the Wildcats were victors by a score of 41-13.

The Rippers last game of the season came against the Hudson Hornets. The Rippers really scrapped for victory, but came up on the short end, 12-19.

Although the Rippers were not a winning team, in the 1966 football season, all their fans can look forward to the coming years of dynasty of Ripper football powers.

The Little Rippers lost three games by a total of only 18 points.

Both their win and tie came at the expense of East Rutherfordton.

Taking into consideration that all the players were freshmen, they played some very fine football.

CHEERLEADERS . . . 1966

"B-E-A-T, beat 'em . . ." This is only one of the enthusiastic yells of the MHS cheerleaders.

Cheerleaders symbolize school spirit and pep, and because they stand as examples of loyalty and devotion to the colors they wear, they must exhibit confidence and pride in their teams.

Practice sessions, traveling, the excitement of games, planning pep rallies, wearing an MHS uniform, earning a block letter, belonging to the Pep Club - these are the duties, incentive, and rewards of Marion cheerleaders.

The Rippers got off to a flying start this year as they ran up a winning streak of six games before losing.

There were many characteristics of our basketball team this year, and the point stressed most was, "Practice makes Perfect." The thud of the dribbling of the ball as it is brought up court . . . setting up the play, and shooting for the basket.

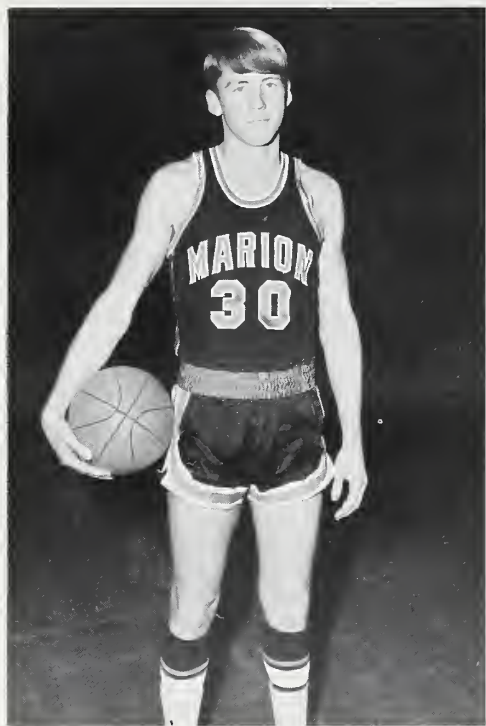

The team was led by co-captains Gus Smith and Henry Wilkinson.

Smith is one of the best ball-handlers in the conference.

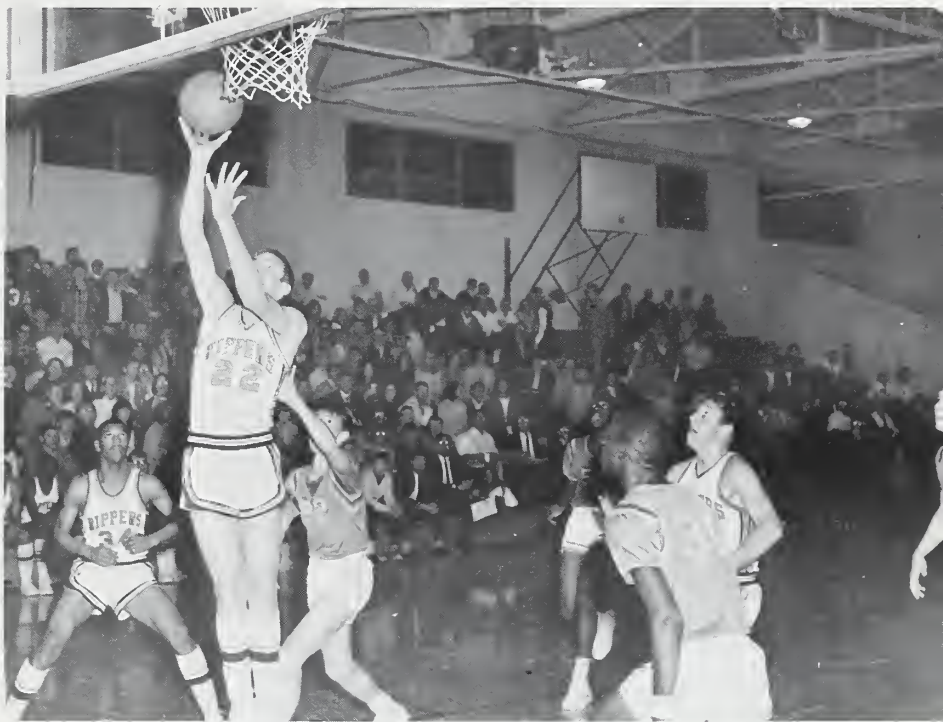

The Rippers starting team usually consist of only one or two seniors and the team has a great depth of talent backing the starting five. So the Ripper fans can look forward to a good season next year.

The usual starting team consists of; Steve Early and Jimmy Laughridge as forwards; Penn Dameron playing center, and Mike Price and Gus Smith at guards.

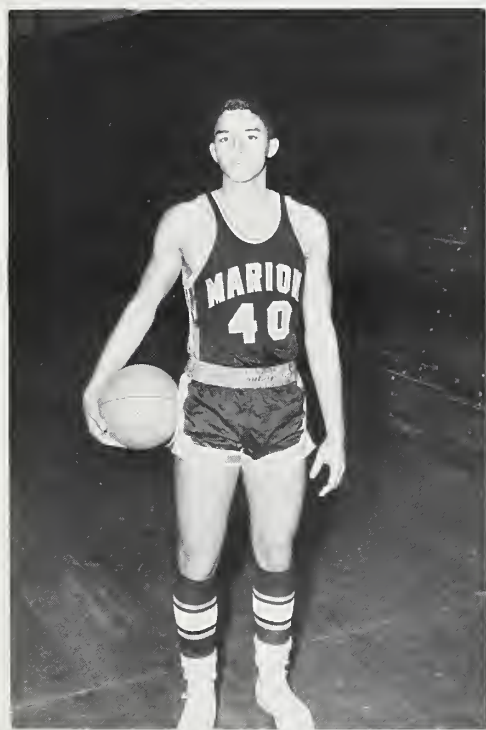

Jerry Hollifield

"Help Coach, I can't turn it loose!"

Dee Rutherford

St. Stephen and the Sinners provide entertainment at the home basketball games.

The team is coached by Ken Brackett, who this year has started a basketball classic in Marion, with the help of the local Citivan Club. Coach Brackett will be the coach of the Northwestern squad. He was chosen "Man of the Year" by the Marion Junior Chamber of Commerce last year.

A bright spot for next year, is that the varsity will lose only five players through graduation. The Rippers will have the potential of conference champions next year, and with Coach Brackett at the helm the team should develop into a basketball power.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council is an organization of students elected by their classmates to serve as official representatives in all matters of concern to the school. It is comparable to a law-making body in that the students are elected to represent and speak for the whole school. It provides a forum for consideration of common school problems and a medium through which student's opinions may be heard.

The Student Body elected Steve Neighbors as their President. Steve devotes a lot of his time to the school. He is M.C. at all pep rallies, and his trumpet playing is heard at home basketball games. He represents the students when discussing problems with Mr. Freeman. We appreciate his interest in us.

NHS members were hosts at College Night.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

KEY CLUB

Each year boys of high character and competent leadership are inducted into this, one of the most highly respected clubs of Marion High School. The Key Club is constantly striving to serve others, promote higher ideals in scholarship and sportsmanship, and aid its school and community in any possible way.

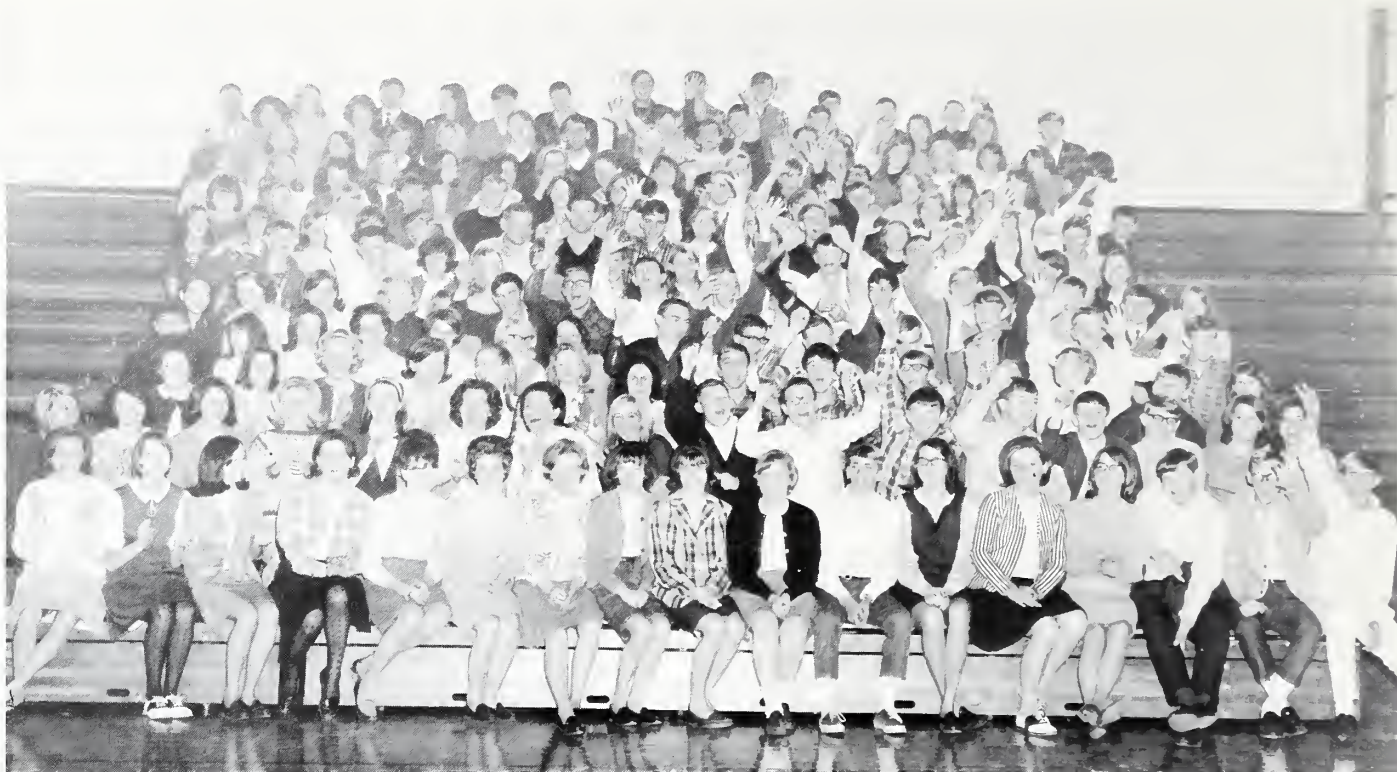

This year's president, Henry Wilkinson, is also Lieutenant-Governor of the Carolina district of Key Club International.

This leading service club has always endeavored to find a service project which will benefit the school and community. Its leading project is the annual toy drive, which was conducted very successfully this year.

This is a fine example of the outstanding ambition of the Marion High School Key Club.

FEATURING

SENIOR SUPERLATIVES . . . 1967

Each year the senior class looks forward to selecting its superlatives. This year the ballots were given out in home room period, and in this brief time the voting was done. It was a difficult ten minutes. "Who do I really think is the best dressed senior girl Oh, no, I forgot who I was going to vote for for Best Leader." After the ballots are counted, the winners are announced. This year during a basketball pep rally, the 1967 Senior Superlatives were named. They stood proudly on the basketball court as the entire student body looked on and applauded.

I am the student.
 I come to etch on my book of life
 Marks
 From the experience
 Called high school.
 I come to on the leaves of this book
 The pulse
 Of the experience
 Called Marion High.
 I come to wither,
 To die, decay . . .
 To change
 From the young boy
 To the old.

I am the Freshman.
 I bring to fall
 Glittering leaves
 Of childhood dreams,
 Leaves lined with
 Hopes, beliefs,
 Green gods
 From summers gone.
 I offer to fall
 These green breathing leaves
 Of summer dreams,
 Leaves of my present
 To die, to turn to Brownscarletyellow,
 Leaves of my past.
 And now . . .

I am the Sophomore.
 I offer to Winter
 Decaying leaves
 Of dying dreams,
 Leaves that absurdly
 Drift from the Bleak sky
 Rotting hopes
 Trampled in snow.
 I grope in Winter
 With little hope
 Of finding life
 In books, but I Know as sure
 as God is Living
 The snow is white.
 And now . . .

I am the Junior.
 And just as sure.
 As God is Living
 The snow is white . . .
 I know, but snow seems gray
 And so, there may be hope
 Of finding hope.
 Winter gives
 A glassy frost
 To frozen ground
 Being beneath a godless sky.
 But one day . . .
 I remember Spring.
 And Now . . .

I am the Senior.

And to the whispering, warm
 soft rain
 Of once- remembered Spring
 I bring past
 Frozen earth,
 Sterile snow,
 Withered leaves.
 But through the dust
 Of dead gods
 Rain- washed.
 I see a bud of Summer life
 Of green life
 To come
 And running
 Forward into God knows
 Where (is God)?
 I glance behind to Wonder why
 I came this way . . .
 And I forget . . .
 And now . . .

I AM the Graduate,
 And I remember.
 In the shadows of my memory
 Sit
 Quietly
 Those who sat beside me then,
 Those to whom I turned
 In this brief eon
 To seek words of meaning
 To justify
 My quiet
 Heartbeat.
 And you
 Lady, through whose
 Profound and fragile
 Lips
 The sweet small clumsy
 Feet of April came
 Into the rugged meadow
 Of my soul.

I will remember
 Your words.

I will remember
 Words
 Spoken through the
 Intoxication of night air,
 Faces
 Sitting sleepily
 In well-worn seats,
 Days
 Of books
 Voices, thoughts, noise,
 And . . .
 Silence.

I will remember.
 And so I turn to go
 And in turning
 Remember . . .

I was the student.
